Residential and Civil Construction Alliance of Ontario hosts stimulus roundtable

TORONTO

Advising governments on how to better roll out stimulus spending for infrastructure is one of the goals of a construction industry roundtable Thursday (Oct. 8), an event organized by the Residential and Civil Construction Alliance of Ontario.

“Now that infrastructure stimulus funds have been announced by both the federal and provincial governments, this will be an opportunity for construction labour and management to assess the situation,” says Andy Manahan, RCCAO executive director.

The roundtable will include presentations by Ontario Energy and Infrastructure Minister George Smitherman and Progressive Conservative Party leader Tim Hudak, the keynote speaker.
