

Andy Manahan thanked for his hard work and leadership at RCCAO

Nov. 20, 2020, Vaughan, Ont. – Please be advised that Andy Manahan is moving on after 14 years as executive director of the Residential and Civil Construction Alliance of Ontario (RCCAO). Following one year on the RCCAO board, he was asked by former chair Phillip Rubinoff to lead the organization and then built it into an influential advocate for infrastructure investment.

The board and staff of RCCAO would like to thank Andy for his hard work and leadership over the years.

With Andy at the helm, RCCAO achieved many milestones. The alliance has produced 58 independent research reports and many videos such as the three-part series on excess soil management. Together with a strong team, Andy moved RCCAO toward social media and, this past year, launched a highly regarded podcast series, Conversations about Construction.

Nadia Todorova, senior director of government relations, has been named interim executive director of the RCCAO. She can be contacted at todorova@rccao.com or 437-224-4206.

We would like to wish Andy all the best in his future endeavours.

Sincerely,

Peter Smith
RCCAO Chair
